

Putting Trade Union Power
into European Batteries

You keep the battery industry running – but who's protecting you?

Safe Workplaces for All:
Protecting Workers' Health and Safety in Battery Production

Every worker deserves to come home healthy and alive.

But in battery production, danger is everywhere
— toxic chemicals, powerful machines, extreme conditions.

One mistake can mean injury, illness, or worse.
Employers must protect us, and workers must have a real say in the safety rules that save lives.

Employers must:

Follow the Law – Protect our health!

Fully respect health and safety laws.
No shortcuts, no excuses.

Putting Trade Union Power
into European Batteries

Train Workers – Keep us safe.

Every worker must get real training,
not box-ticking. We have the right to know the risks we face and how to manage them.

Fix Problems – Before someone gets hurt.

Implement better safety rules and check machines and conditions regularly —
not just after an accident.

Listen to Workers – We know the risks best.

Include workers in hazard assessments and safety planning. Our lives are on the line —
we deserve a say.

Monitor Health – Not just machines.

Provide regular medical screenings for all workers.

Stronger together for safe jobs.
Join your union today.
Safer work starts with organised workers.
